FOOD GUIDE FOR MUSLIMS

Inspired by geography and shaped by history, Korea's unique fare draws on nature's bounty for its distinctive taste, texture, and world-famous zest. With harvests from lush green rice paddies, sun-drenched tangerine orchards and mountain valley chili pepper farms, Korean food beams with freshness. It delights the senses, invigorates the palate, and challenges foodies to explore regional variations.

With 5,000 years of culinary history, the cultural importance of food extends well beyond nourishment. When friends and colleagues greet each other in the morning, they ask, "Did you eat breakfast?" This is considered as much of a greeting as it is an inquiry. During ancestral rituals, food is the centerpiece of the ceremonial table. To sustain health, Koreans search out food respected for medicinal properties like kimchi to aid in digestion, and a panoply of herbs such as ginseng, ginger, garlic and ginkgo to promote well-being.

Navigating the variety of dietary choices in Korea can be a challenge for any world traveler, even more so for those that have dietary constrictions due to faith. That is why we prepared this book, a guide to acceptable food for Muslims. It includes a catalogue of dishes with informational tags to help Muslims make informed food choices. To ensure accuracy, we received valuable input from the Korea Muslim Federation as well as Islamic culture and halal food experts.

Korean fare is famous for its spicy dishes, but there's more to explore. This book identifies restaurants that visitors, like you, might enjoy because the food is consistent with halal standards. A variety of Korean dishes, tagged with different certificate reassurances, have been highlighted in order to help you explore this country's cuisine. We hope this book helps the Muslim community discover the richness and diversity of Korea's culinary delights.

RESTAURANTS GUIDE

Take a moment to study a Korean dining table and you will find two common features: an emphasis on healthy freshness and an unshakeable worldview that see eating as a communal experience. Healthy dishes such as gujeolpan (platter of nine delicacies) and shared hotpot stews like sinseollo are two such examples. With a growing number of expat restaurant owners, Korea's food scene is evolving thanks to classic international cuisine and modern fusion dishes. The result is a delectable, eclectic, and dynamic food culture.

Today's Korean food is more accessible than ever before. That is why we are delighted to help Muslim travelers by creating opportunities to experience this country's unique approach to food and dining. Throughout this book, we've tagged restaurants as "Muslim-friendly" to help everyone make appropriate choices. We've also developed a restaurant rating system that provides accurate and useful information based on four categories.

MUSLIM-FRIENDLY RESTAURANTS CATEGORIES

Your restaurant will be halal certified if you acquire a halal certification from an agency recognized by the Ministry of Food and Drug Safety and if you hire at least one Muslim operator or cook.

Your restaurant will be self-certified if you identify as a halal restaurant with a Muslim operator or cook.

Your restaurant will be Muslim-friendly if it partially or entirely offers halal dishes with alcohol allowed.

Even without a halal menu, your restaurant will be considered pork-free as long as you do not use pork in preparing your dishes.

The Capital of Korea never seems to sleep. From sunrise along the Hangang River to midnight shopping, there's something for everyone at every hour. Most tourists make their way to the popular spots, lunchtime window-shopping in Insadong, teatime in Bukchon amidst traditional housing and sunset strolls past galleries, boutiques and fusion cafes in Samcheongdong. Then there's Itaewon, Seoul's trendy expat town packed with Korean and international restaurants. There truly is something for everyone in this bustling metropolis.

Incheon & Gyeonggi-do

1 Hwaseong Fortress
2 Korean Folk Village
3 Songdo Central Park

Incheon – the province locating outpost of Seoul – is the first place foreign people can visit when arriving in Korea. You can see superb views of the West Sea in Yeongjongdo island, where the airport is located and experience retro-style streets with modern architectural buildings at the area near Incheon Station. Lastly you can enjoy romantic moments while surrounded by splendid nightscapes in Songdo International Business District. Gyeonggi-do – the province surrounding Seoul – is the place for experiential travel. Ride the roller coasters at Everland, the country’s biggest theme park, get an up-close look at the demilitarized zone in Paju, or take a seat at the potter’s wheel and make your own ceramics in Icheon. with excellent transportation links, most sites in Gyeonggi-do are an easy day-trip from Seoul.

Gangwon-do

1 Seoraksan Mountain
 2 Wondae-ri Birch Forest
 3 Daegwallyeong Sheep Ranch

Celebrated for its natural beauty, Gangwon-do is a favorite destination for hikers, photographers and outdoor enthusiasts. Snow capped mountains in the winter, fields of flower blossoms in the spring, cool ocean breezes in the summer and maple forests in the fall where sunshine drips like golden honey await those who dare to venture beyond the capital. Any trip to Gangwon-do just wouldn't be complete without sampling local specialties like grilled mackerel, spicy fish stew, rice noodles, and piping hot mushroom stew.

1 Daejeon Expo

3 Daecheongho Obaekrigil

Centrally located in the peninsula, Daejeon is a quieter community that has a large population of commuters working in Seoul, as well as nearby government offices. It's also a convenient starting point for treks to nearby attractions in Chungcheongnam-do like Daecheon Beach. In southern Daejeon, Jangtaesan Mountain's dense metasequoia forest, razed trails and lush valleys make it a popular destination for day hikers looking for an easy outing.

A brisk 90-minute bus ride down the expressway, Gyeongju might be the country's busiest tourist destination. Nicknamed "the museum without walls" it is the place to see historical artifacts and culturally important destinations like Bulguksa Temple and the Seokguram Grotto, a UNESCO World Heritage site. Venture a bit further down the road to Gampo and you will find more than 200 seafood restaurants serving shrimp, king crab, lobster and raw fish.

- 1 Gwangandaegyo Bridge
- 2 Haedongyonggungsa Temple
- 3 Haeundae

On the southeastern tip of the Korean peninsula, Busan is known for a sharp dialect, spicy food, a tantalizing array of seafood choices, and a long list of must-see destinations. Chief among these are leisurely strolls along Moontan Road on Dalmaji Hill, the spectacular night view of Gwangandaegyo Bridge, and department store shopping in Haeundae.

MUSLIM-FRIENDLY KOREAN MENU CLASSIFICATION

A decade ago, the TV drama Jewel of the Palace (Dae Jang Geum) mesmerized viewers around the world. It told the story of a young woman who combined fresh healthy food, such as lotus root, carrot and radish, to cure an ailing king. In addition to launching Hallyu, a global wave of interest in Korean pop art and culture, it sparked a fascination with Korean cuisine.

For Muslim travelers, some Korean dishes contain ingredients that are inconsistent with halal traditions. To make Korean food accessible to a global audience, a cross section of popular dishes has been categorized to help Muslim travelers make informed dietary choices.

Though recipes for individual dishes may vary, the core ingredients and cooking methods are generally consistent across the country. If you are uncertain about the acceptability of a specific dish in a restaurant, point to one of the translated dialogues in the back of this book and the restaurant staff will understand and answer your concerns.
